Meet some tiger cubs

Two Siberian tiger cubs cuddle with their mother.

The mother tiger watches out for enemies.

She makes sure no one hurts her cubs.

All about tigers

Tigers are big wild cats.

Most tigers have orange and white fur with black stripes.

Each tiger has a different pattern of stripes.

Tigers also have sharp teeth that are made for ripping and chewing food.

Tiger Cubs

Tiger cubs only stay with their mother for about two years after they are born. Luckily, during that time, their mother teaches the little cubs lots of lessons about hunting and taking care of themselves. Look inside to discover all the ways these wild baby animals get ready to become grown-up tigers.
